

Copyright statement

In the case of the poems and the tales distributed in these episodes, all copyrights remain with any individual writer, with the Core Skills Partnership being asked to be responsible solely for their distribution under the 'The Word's the Thing' banner. The Partnership asserts, on their behalf, the rights of the various authors to be identified as the authors of these works. Within the context of wishing to see their widespread distribution, these collected writings are not to be sold, hired or charged for and the right of copyright remains initially via the Core Skills Development Partnership, 2008.